

June 5, 2007

Representative Anna Eshoo
205 Cannon House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

Representative Bob Goodlatte
2240 Rayburn House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Representatives Eshoo and Goodlatte,

I am writing in support of the Permanent Internet Tax Freedom Act. As the 80 year-old original high-tech start up, Motorola strongly supports policies that foster increased broadband access. Driven by our vision of seamless mobility, Motorola is creating the devices that connect everyone to everything, anytime, anywhere. Critical to this vision is mobile broadband access for all Americans.

Internet access is critical for a global economy in a digital world. Your legislation is the right action for the Congress to take to promote Internet access and help America to remain competitive globally. The benefits of Internet access are seen universally—enhanced education, efficient health care, and job growth to name just a few.

Because the Permanent Internet Tax Freedom Act indefinitely extends the current ban on Internet access taxes scheduled to expire later this year, Motorola hopes that the Congress will pass this legislation as soon as possible. We are thankful for your leadership in this important area of our economy and wish you every success.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'W. Anaya'.

William B. Anaya
Vice President
Government Relations